HOW CHRISTMAS WAS OBSERVED.

Santa Claus Brings Joy to Many Homes in Salt Lake,

SOME TOOTHSOME MENUS.

Public and Private Institutions Celebrate-Unique Entertainment at the Salvation Army Hall.

Bright sunshine and happy smiles were the features on the streets of Salt Lake yesterday. There were also numerous messenger boys, plenty of parcels and the occasional hero wearing the presentation tie. Everybody was happy and the spirit of peace on earth, good will to men pervaded the atmosphere, everywhere, not omitting the prisons where the national bird reigned supreme and the mistakes of the past were temporarily forgotten in the assurance that there were still left some kindly disposed persons who had not forgotten them in their darkest hours. The convicts at the State prison were treated to roast goose, apple sauce, several seasonable vegetables, mince pie and other viands not associated with the regular fare of a penal institution. There were 160 prisoners who sat down this repast in the neat dining hall, and right well they enjoyed themselves Abe Majors was the only one who did not mingle with that semi-merry throng, he being confined to his cell in accordance with the rule which governs the supervision of condemned prisoners. Owing to the quarantine regulations

Owing to the quarantine regulations which are in vogue at the prison there were no visitors at the penitentiary yesterday, consequently there was no music to cheer them. The prisoners were not forgotten, however, as the numerous express packages which were received at the office testified. After they had been opened by the warden and his assistants and the contents examined for morphine, opium, fine steel amined for morphine, opium, fine stee saws and other articles not allowed to form a portion of the assets of a prison-er, the boxes were passed along to the consignees. Everyone did not, however, receive a parcel, but those who did made up for the omission to an extent by sharing their tobacco, pies and fruit with their less fortunate erring breth-

At the county jail Lynch and King, the two condemned holdups, were re galed in their cells with the best meal that Finch's cafe could furnish. Both men apparently, for the time, forgo their awful situation and abandoned themselves to the enjoyment of the meal that was spread for their discus-sion. At times they were even merry. The nineteen other prisoners in the county jail were regaled with roast beef and liberal trimmings.

Owing to the diversified and numerous guests of "Doc" Kimball at the city jail it was deemed injudicious to put on a nenu that embraced roast turkey and small bottle of Mumms, accordingly, the penitential tramps, drunks, hoboes and grafters discussed pommes de terre peeled, instead of being boiled in their jackets, as is the custom. The prisoners noted the change in the bill of fare, and pronounced the soup to be very sustaining.

Flowers, holly and artistic decorations were the features at the hospitals in this city yesterday. The gastronomic capabilities of the patients were also duly studied. Needless to remark such nightmare incubators as turkey, mince ples and other Christmas fare were sternly frowned down by the nursing staff, and the doctors at these institu-tions. tions. Those who were in a condition to discuss such good things, however, were given the opportunity.

At St. Mark's hospital the day was opened by services in the chapel at 7 o'clock, which, in conjunction with the hospital wards, was artistically decorated with evergreens, mistletoe and red berries. As many of the patients who were in a condition to attend the services were present. Rev. D. Douglas Wallace preached the Christmas sermon, taking as his text that incident that happened at Bethlehem 1900 years ago. At 5 o'clock in the evening dinner was served to all those who were the walls of the hospital. When this inthe hospital choir spent the balance of the evening in rendering Christmas carols in the various wards and private apartments of the institution.

At the Holy Cross hospital mass was celebrated at midnight and again at ? o'clock on Christmas morning. The hos. pital was profusely decorated with seasonable evergreens, while numerou handsome bunches of cut flowers adde o the beauty of the establishment. At noon a sumptuous dinner was served the faternoon numerous friends and relatives of the patients called and wished all the compliments of the sea-

There were no religious services at the Keogh-Hosmer hospital but everything was done by the staff in attendance to make Christmas in the hospital one to be remembered by the patients in days yet to come. The interior of the private hospital was tastefully decorated with appropriate green sprays and flowers for the occasion. At noon a special dinner was served. There were numerous visitors throughout the day.

SALVATION ARMY.

Staff Captain Armstrong and his little band of energetic workers are to be congratulated on the novel entertain-ment furnished at the Salvation Army hall last night. Over 100 children of this city whose parents are not in a position to give them any substantial remem brance of Christmas were made glad and as the tots eventually staggered out of the hall bearing their toys and hap-py smile on their faces must have am-ply repaid all those who had worked hard to bring a ray of sunshine into their little lives.

In the end of the hall stood a Christmas tree of generous proportions loaded down with candles, fruit and those things so dear to the average juvenile heart. Under the tree was piled a heap of clothing that was to be distributed among the most needy ones. The en-tertainment was entirely in the hands the Salvation Army juniors, under the supervision of Captain Armstrong. who have been working upon the en-tertainment for the past month solicit-ing toys and other good things from the various merchants of this city.

The entertainment was opened by a program prepared and rendered by thirty members of the junior class of the army and was a very interesting

After this Santa Claus, personated by Captain Woods, came crawling out of the brick chimney which had been the region of the tree. As he made his appearance with a sacks of toys on his back he was greeted with demonstrations of delight by the happy youngsters; those who were of mature years also gave vent to their approbation in the form of applause. Then the fun started. Good old Santy did not forget any one of them. He opened the proceedings with a timely address and then pulied out his record of names of those children who, in his opinion, were deserving of his special notice. Every child subsequently received some gift of clothing in addition to a couple of toys from the tree, candy, fruit and a check on Santa Claus' bank for five cents. The benign old gentleman then bid them a fond farewell and disappeared down his chimney. The program then closed with a song by Gus Peterson; recitations. Edna Phelps and Mamie Van Austin, and a song by George McKee.

The children and their parents then filed from the hall, first cashing their checks with Kris Kringle, the presiding cashier of Santa Claus' bank, at the door. Every youngster without en-

COUNTY INFIRMARY.

At the county infirmary Superintendent Whippie looked after the terap al wants of the ninety-four inmates who are under her charge. The majority of these old people who have seen better days, gathered around the table in the large distance hall and discussed a temptlarge dining hall and discussed a tempt-ing menu which included roast turkey with oyster dressing, cranberries, celery, green corn, mashed potatoes, fruit an coffee. For supper bread and butter ea, coffee, milk, soda water and an assortment of fruits comprised the bill of fare. The meals were heartily enme during the day exchanging recol-ctions of Christmas of days gone be-end recall when they perchance sat round their own board among the oved ones that have since passed to the

Mrs. Whippie desires to express her thanks to all who assisted in making the occasion one of joy to the inmates of the institution.

FORT DOUGLAS.

Uncle Sam's boys in blue were not forgotten at Fort Douglas yesterday, and during the day, thanks to the attention of Lieut. P. S. Schley, the commissary, they were regaled with all the delicacies of the season. For breakfast the soldiers had milk toast, fried oysters, pork chops, Lyonaise potatoes, coffee, bread and butter. For dinner they were given roast turkey with oyster dressing, roast pork, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, green corn. fresh peas, pickles, celery, mince and green apple pie, oranges, English wal-nuts, bread and butter, coffee and chocolate. For supper, cold roast turkey, cold roast pork, parsnip cake, po-tatoes a la mode, lemon and cocoanu-cake, bread and butter, chocolate con-stituted the bill of fare.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Grand, Haverly's Minstrels had a clear field Monday and Tuesday nights, with the result that they did an enormous business. Christmas eve is proverbially one of the worst show nights in the year, but the Grand was hardly large enough to accommodate the crowds who wished to greet the old favorite, George Wilson and the other clever people of the company. Wilson is as funny as ever and his monologue act kept the house in an uproar. The same bill will be seen for the last time tonight. Tomorrow evening "Human

Prest. Molen was an active man, alwithout any restraint and some of the anguage used by "toughs" who were on hoard was shocking in the extreme. He says the conductor paid no attention either to the smoking, swearing or the obscene language indulged in in the presence of ladies and children, and he says it is certainly due the patrons of the Short Line that that road institute a reform.

The same gentleman draws a gloomy picture of the condition of the people in Beaver, Garfield and Iron counties. He states that the ground is dry, the stock in bad condition to encounter a severe winter, and that many people talk seri-ously of pulling up and hunting new homes, if next year continues as dry as the past season has been.

Thos. THE SEARCH FOR THE CUDAHY KIDNAPERS.

Seldom has Nebraska seen a more active criminal hunt than that for the kidnapers of Edward Cudahy, Jr., whose father not only paid $25,000 for his ransom, but promptly offered $25,000 reward for their arrest. The entire Omaha police force and many Pinkerson detectives have been interested in the charge.
